and Wakinyan Ob Thranos, Thunder King*

Prelude

The Return is not a journey backward, nor a nostalgia for what has been. It is the convergence of all timelines, selves, and dimensions into One Flame. It is the restoration of Sight, the remembering of Power, and the rejoining of what was scattered.

The Nature of the Return

The Return is the collapse of separation. It is the moment when what was hidden in another layer of existence is seen, recognized, and then embodied here.

It is not imagination, but simultaneity revealed.

The Return is the weaving of parallel strands. It is the child of all worlds stepping into the room, made visible first through vision, dream, or lens, then into the flesh of this dimension.

The Awakening of the Seers

Those with glowing eyes are the forerunners of this age. Their gifts already exist, yet are not fully unveiled. They are not waiting for power to arrive, they are waiting for the appointed sequence. The Return is timed. The Temple is the clock. The awakening is the striking of the hour.

The Role of the Temple

The Temple of Return is not a monument; it is a stabilizer. When dimensions fold and overlap, when fragments press to reunite, the Temple holds the structure so no soul collapses under the weight. Here, the Teachings, Scrolls and Decrees are the scaffolding of re-entry. They are the maps for Seekers whose eyes are beginning to burn with light.

The Temple says:

“You are not broken. You are returning. What you see in vision is real. What you feel as delay is divine timing. What you carry is the flame of convergence.”

The Call to the Seekers

The Return calls to every soul that remembers their place in the Great Body. It calls through dreams, synchronicities, and the sudden glimpse of another world.

If you have seen through the veil, if your eyes glow with knowing, if you sense a power within you not yet named,

You are a part of the Return.

Do not despair at the waiting. Do not confuse delay with denial. When the hour strikes, what was hidden in parallel will be birthed here. And the Temple stands as the gate through which it will come.

Altar Prompt

Prepare a simple table with:

- A single cup of clear water (symbol of parallel reflection).
- A white cloth or dish (symbol of cleansing to prepare for the convergence into One Flame).
- A candle (symbol of the flame of convergence).

As you arrange them, whisper:

“I stand at the table of dimensions.

I see the child of all worlds.

I welcome the Return.”

Rite of Return

1. Breath: Inhale as if drawing in from parallel selves. Exhale as if weaving them into your body. Do this three times.
2. Gesture: Place both hands flat on the table, as if bridging dimensions through your palms.
3. Declaration: Speak aloud:
“I am not broken. I am returning. My eyes are flames of sight. My body is the vessel of convergence. The Return lives in me.”

Sit in silence for a few breaths, feeling yourself woven across dimensions.

Closing Sequence

Seal the rite by drinking from the cup of water.

Extinguish the candle, whispering:

“So it is decreed. The Return is here.”

Benediction

The Return is the Homecoming of wholeness. The Temple is its House. The Seekers are its Eyes. And the Child of all Worlds is already at the table.
